

SEATTLE STILL PARALYZED BY GRIP OF STRIKE

Newspapers, Schools, Theaters, Restaurants Are All Closed.

TROOPS CALLED TO CITY

Hope to Get Street Cars Running with Aid of Police and Troops.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 7.—Seattle today started its second day of general strike and lockout. No attempts had been made yesterday or last night to operate the street cars which have been idle since the union motor men ran the cars to the car barns yesterday and joined the thousands of other union workmen who have walked out.

Fearly today there were no signs of a break in the opposing interests. Camp Lewis soldiers to the number of over 1,000 arrived here early today to co-operate with the police in maintaining order and protecting government property.

Brigadier General Hayden announced that the troops were here. When asked how many he replied, "We have enough."

Activities Paralyzed.

Newspapers have suspended publications, schools and theaters are closed; street cars have ceased to operate, restaurants have shut down and shipping has been diverted to Oregon ports because there was no one to unload it.

Soup kitchens have been established for the benefit largely of the strikers who are given special rates. Non-union workmen are paying higher prices for the same service.

At Tacoma, where a similar sympathetic strike is in progress symptoms on the situation indicate an improvement.

Municipal street car service will be resumed in Seattle, Mayor Hanson announced today, just as soon as the police and soldiers can be organized to accompany the cars on trucks.

Soldiers Stand Guard.

Armed soldiers stood guard today around United States government buildings and offices. Nearly 1,000 extra police are being held in reserve at various stations. There was no trouble during the morning.

Mayor Hansen started a municipal street car on its regular trip to a suburb today. Several detectives occupied seats in the car. Many people watched the progress of the first car, which stopped several times for passengers.

Mayor Hansen has issued the following notice to the strike committee:

"I hereby notify you that unless the sympathetic strike is called off by 8 A. M., February 8 I will take steps to operate all essential industries and place the city under the control of the federal government." Major General Morrison, commander of the western division of the U. S. army, is in Seattle to take charge of the military end of the strike situation.

Basket Ball Game at High School This Eve

The Mt. Carroll high school basketball team will arrive here this evening to meet the Dixon high school team in their second game of the season at the south side high school gym. Dixon defeated Mt. Carroll on its own floor a few weeks ago, and since then the defeated boys have been practicing most faithfully and hope to even the tables tonight, night.

Want Government to Fix Future Prices

Washington, Feb. 7.—President Wilson has been asked to name a committee of industrial leaders and government representatives which are to have the power of investigating and suggesting a scale of price for basic commodities at which the government will buy during the post-war period. Secretary of Commerce Redfield announced today. The step was taken after a conference of producers and labor representatives and government officials, who were unanimous. Secretary Redfield said, in recommending it.

"EMPIRE OF JUSTICE AND TRUTH" IS HOPE OF CHANCELLOR EBERT

"Ladies and Gentlemen" is Ebert's Novel (For Germany) Opener.

SAYS PEOPLE RULE

Weimar, Germany, Feb. 3.—(Delayed)—"The old order in Germany is gone beyond recall. The people are determined to rule themselves," said Chancellor Ebert in calling the National Assembly to order this afternoon. "We will be an empire of justice and truth." The Chancellor opened the proceedings of the Assembly at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. He was received with great applause. In opening his address the Chancellor said:

"Ladies and gentlemen," a form of address which has never before been heard by a German legislative body. He appealed for unity and untiring labor. He said he hailed the position of German-Austria to bring about national unity by which the German race alone can afford a guarantee of a flourishing and economical life.

TRACTION OUTFIT SLID DOWN HILL

A big traction engine, pulling a tank wagon and a huge corn sheller, came to grief this morning about 7 o'clock on the Crawford avenue hill near the Evening Telegraph office. The outfit, which is owned by Charles Duis, was proceeding down the hill toward the river, when the slipperiness of the snow-covered paving caused the driver to lose control, and with reverse power on, the whole train of machinery started sliding down the hill and crashed into the curb near the Bishop Hotel. The damage was very slight, compared to what might have been expected. The big water tank was thrown partly off its trucks and the tongue of the wagon smashed.

Berlin, Feb. 7.—The city of Dusseldorf "walked out" in retaliation against Spartacan terrorism today. Officials, clerks, employees of railroads, telegraph, telephone and service lines; bankers, lawyers, physicians and school teachers have all quit work.

SAY WHEAT WILL BE DOWN TO $1.25 BUSHEL

DECLARE PASSAGE OF GUARANTEE BILL WILL LOWER PRICES TO CONSUMER.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Members of the house agricultural committee today expressed the opinion that the price of flour would be lowered and the cost to the consumer, along with the price of other principle food stuffs, would decline if congress would pass the bill for the carrying out of the government's wheat price guarantee.

The bill provides that the government shall carry out its promise of $2.26 per bushel for the 1919 price to the farmers. The statement is that the price to the consumers would be regulated only by the law of supply and demand and would probably be $1.25 per bushel.

Will Sentence Edward Garland Next Monday

RAIL UNIONS PROPOSE FEDERAL OWNERSHIP; PRIVATE OPERATION

Brotherhoods Would Share in Profits with Government.

ONE BIG CORPORATION

Washington, Feb. 7.—Railroad labor interests today proposed government ownership and private operation by one large corporation cooperatively organized and shading the profits with the employees as their solution of the railroad problem.

Testifying before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee in behalf of the four leading trainmen's brotherhoods and other employees, Glenn E. Plumb, of Chicago, recommended that the government acquire all railroads at a price that fairly represent their physical value and entrust the operation to a cooperative corporation to be directed jointly by employees, officials and the government. The earnings would be divided equally between the employees and the government and the rates would be automatically reduced when the profits amounted to more than a fixed rate.

John Compas Will Be Taken to Reformatory

Sheriff Schoenholz will go to Pontiac tomorrow with John Compas, the young Mexican, who was found guilty of rape by a jury in the Circuit court recently. A letter from Judge Farrand, including his own and the jury's recommendation that his term be less than a year will be sent with the prisoner.

NEW YORK PAPER IN STORY OF SUCCESS OF FORMER DIXON YOUTH

Evening Telegram Gives Account of Business of Thomas J. McBride.

IN BUSINESS 60 YEARS

Established Newsstand and Theater Ticket Agency in Business District.

The New York Evening Telegram of February 2nd, contains a half column story concerning Thomas J. McBride, brother of Mrs. A. J. Graff, of this city, which will interest many old friends here. Mr. McBride left Dixon when he was 19 years of age and has since made a fortune for himself in New York City, where he has a palatial home in which he has entertained many of his Dixon friends. The Telegram tells of the growth of his business in connection with an account of friends honoring him, as follows:

Thomas J. McBride, founder of McBride's Theatre ticket office, although more than seventy years of age, still is the active head of the business, which is rounding out its fortieth year.

Great and unexpected was his surprise when he arrived at his office yesterday to find a handsome display of affectionate remembrance in floral wreaths and other decorations, but more than these were the hearty greetings and good will shown to him in the warm handshakes of his old friends.

"What a flood of pleasant recollections all this bring back to my mind," said Mr. McBride.

Business 60 Years Old.

Mr. McBride started in business almost sixty years before, founding the present agency at the Union Square Hotel, and realized the advantage of having a news stand and theatre ticket business in the financial district. So when the old Metropolitan elevated road made arrangements to use the hallway of No. 71 Broadway as an entrance to the Rector street station, Mr. McBride leased a space in the hallway and called it the Arcade News Room and Theatre Ticket office and on February 1, 1879, opened for business.

Prominent men from all over the country stopped at this stand, among them General U. S. Grant, General William T. Sherman, General George B. McClellan, General W. S. Hancock, and Presidents Samuel J. Tilden, Grover Cleveland and Chester A. Arthur.

Among the financial giants who patronized this business at that time Mr. McBride recalls Cyrus W. Field, Jay Gould, Russell Sage, J. P. Morgan, and scores of others.

Many Actors Then.

"We had many actors also who used to visit the street at different times, among whom were Ed. Booth, Dion Boucicault, Billy Burch, Jack Haverly, Osmond Tearle, of Wallack's and many others who bring to mind the early days in the ticket business," said Mr. McBride. "For the first engagement of Henry Irving in New York we formed a line in front of the old Star Theatre, Broadway and Thirteenth street, at eight o'clock Friday evening and kept it there in relays of thirty-six men until 9 o'clock the following Wednesday morning. I had the pleasure of buying the first ticket sold out of the box office for this engagement of four weeks. Each ticket cost $60 for twenty-four performances and each man could buy only ten seats.

"My, how times have changed since those early days in business!"

Discovered Fire in Automobile Cushion

Employees at the Joe Miller garage yesterday afternoon discovered fire in the front cushion of Dr. E. S. Murphy's automobile, their discovery of the fire at that time probably preventing a very serious blaze. It is believed spontaneous combustion in the upholstery of the cushion started the fire which was smoldering steadily directly over the gasoline tank.

Sparks from the chimney set fire to the roof at the residence of John Williams, 693 Hennepin ave., at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon, causing a blaze which burned the roof considerably. The fire was extinguished with chemicals.

LONDON STRIKE IS SETTLED; CARS RUN

Settlement Too Late for Good Service This Morning, However.

OVER AT MIDNIGHT

By Associated Press Leased Wire

London, Feb. 7.—The settlement between the Board of Trade and the strike commission of the Associated Societies of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen was effected so late last night that it was impossible for the tubes to give even a skeleton service this morning, and once more hundreds of thousands of Londoners were obliged to travel to their places of business in auto busses, motor trucks, street cars and on foot.

The subways hope to handle the homeward bound crowds tonight. All depends upon the power house employees but it is expected they will return to work before nightfall.

The situation in southwest suburbs was relieved greatly today by the return to work of motormen on the Southwest Electric system. Also there was full service on the electric lines of the Brighton railroad.

The union of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen issued a statement at midnight ending the strike. Sec. Bromley said that all men would be at work Friday. He added that if consideration had been given physical disabilities of men in continual service the strike never would have occurred.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS TO GIVE VAUDEVILLE

Senior Class of D. H. S. Will Give Show at Opera House February 18th.

Dixon people will find unusual interest in the Vaudeville to be given on February 18th, at the opera house, as it is to be put on by the Senior class of the Dixon High school. There will be four acts and every act is bound to make a hit. Clever costuming will add to its effectiveness. In connection with the vaudeville acts, a seven-reel picture will be given. Miss Ashton, English teacher of the High school, has been training the young people and has assisted in the creditable development of much latent talent.

Aim Law at Blind Pig Properties

Washington, Feb. 7.—A provision that buildings used in selling liquor in violation to the war-time prohibition act may be treated as public nuisances and that courts may forbid their use for any purpose for the period of one year, are included in recommendations made today by Secretary Glass through the house judiciary committee.

Boys Had Not Got Home Thursday P. M.

Chief of Police Van Bibber yesterday afternoon received a telegram from Mrs. A. Juhre, mother of one of the three Milwaukee lads who had run away from home and who were caught here, asking what time they had left Dixon. The telegram indicated that the boys had not reached home at the time the message was sent, 3:05 Thursday afternoon, although they left Dixon early Wednesday morning.

SECRET PACTS MUST GIVE WAY TO LEAGUE LAW

Secret Treaties Out of Harmony with League Must Be Abandoned.

WORK HALF FINISHED

Construction of Constitution of Society of Nations Half Done.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, Feb. 7.—William Allen White, of Emporia, Kas., and Prof. George Davis Harron have been appointed as American delegates to the Prince Island conference of the various Russian factions.

Would Void Secret Treaties.

Paris, Feb. 7.—Secret treaties made under the stress of war which are out of harmony with the principles of the Society of Nations now being organized are proving subjects of great deliberation by the commission.

American delegates, at least, said that such agreements so far as they conflict with the principles of the Society of Nations must give way.

Work Half Through.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, Feb. 7.—Substantially half of the draft of the constitution of the Society of Nations has been covered by the chief conference commission, which is dealing with the question, it was officially announced today. In approving a number of additions to the draft the commission has reached an accord, it is stated, on certain questions of the greatest importance concerning the positions and functions of the league. The acceptance of the additions is provisional.

Wilson Hopes to Finish.

By Associated Press

Paris, Feb. 7.—The Society of Nations commissions met last night with President Wilson as chairman pressing the work forward to bring about a completion of the constitution for the Society of Nations. These night sessions last until midnight. Great progress is now being indicated in the task which may be completed within the next four or five days or well ahead of the time for the President's return to the United States on Feb. 15th.

The members of the commission emphasize, however, that the agreements so far are provisional only. The entire structure may yet have to be revised when it comes to agreeing on details.

Finish Next Week.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, Feb. 7.—Capt. Tardieu, one of the French representatives on the commission of the Society of Nations, announced tonight that the program for the society will be ready some time next week.

Conscription to Stand.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, Feb. 7.—Eleven articles of the projects of the Society of Nations were discussed and approved with small modifications by the peace conference commission dealing with that subject last night, at which President Wilson presided.

The only paragraph not approved was one declaring for the abolition of compulsory military service unless required for the purposes of natural defense in extraordinary circumstances.

Premier Orlando of Italy opposed the paragraph, saying that if conscription were once abolished, an attempt to revive it might lead to serious trouble, even revolution. One French member of the commission joined Premier Orlando in his position, declaring that France, owing to her geographical situation, needed a standing army.

The paragraph was then cancelled, and it was decided to leave to each country the decision as to how it will raise its armed forces to the figure that is to be decided upon later.

Germany Threatened to Break Negotiations

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Paris, Feb. 7.—The allied Premiers, meeting this afternoon at the supreme inter-allied war council, probably will fix new terms to be imposed upon Germany whose tactics of obstruction and recrimination are said to have reached their climax in a threat made at Weimar by Chancellor Ebert that Germany would break off negotiations with the allies.

Miss Torgerson and Miss Patrick have returned from a visit to Chicago of several days' duration.

Would Abolish Ring of Forts 'Round Paris

Paris, Jan. 10.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The question of the demolition of the ring of antiquated fortifications which surround Paris will be brought up before the Municipal Council during the course of the next few months. This is not as a result of the armistice or because of League of Nations which is expected to put an end to wars forever, or because of the fact that with modern artillery the fortifications would be useless. The matter has already been brought up before the Council. It dates back from 1884. The plan, however, would have to be referred to Parliament by the Municipal Council after its adoption.

Louis Dausset, an alderman of the city of Paris is sponsor for the project. He argues that the benefits to be derived are a closer, easier contact with the Paris suburbs, elimination of the necessity of entering or leaving Paris through the various gates and the freeing of valuable land for building purposes.

TELL THE WORLD THIS WOMAN SAYS

That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made Me a Well Woman.

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I suffered with female troubles for years, was sick most of the time, was not able to do my own housework, and I could not get help from doctors. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers, and took six bottles, and am a well woman. You can use my name to tell the world the good your medicine has done me as I shall praise it always."—Mrs. A. L. Devine, 647 St. Paul Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.

Women who suffer from any form of weakness, as indicated by displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues," should do as Mrs. De Vine did and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial.

For over forty years this famous remedy, which contains the curative, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, has been correcting just such ailments. If you have mysterious complications write for advice to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Rev. Fr. Foley was responsible for a very pleasant treat accorded a few friends who were taken through St. Mary's Parochial school on Wednesday. From the large basement, containing the steam-heating plant, kitchen, dining room, toilet, and cold storage, to the observatory, everything was immaculate. The rooms are large, well lighted and ventilated. The walls are artistically tinted, as well as decorated with beautiful etchings, flags, portraits of war heroes, serving to instill patriotism in the minds of the pupils, and appropriate sacred pictures. The large dining room is beautifully furnished. The chapel, music room, bath rooms, etc., are on the second floor and the sleeping rooms on the third floor.

The school and recitation rooms were all filled with interesting pupils who were in no wise embarrassed by visitors and the sisters, who are of the most amiable and gracious types, responded to Father Foley's request that the pupils be allowed to give a few recitations and readings. This they did in a very pleasing manner, reflecting much credit upon instructors. Several large victrolas and pianos, which add greatly to the pleasure and happiness of the pupils, also gave pleasure to the guests on this afternoon.

The beautiful building and surrounding park present an attractive appearance during the summer, and everyone interested is made welcome at any time to visit this beautiful home and school.

The Promoter's Wife

By JANE PHELPS

NEIL PRAISES BLANCHE ORTON. CHAPTER XL.

That many men made quick fortunes in New York, I did not know. So it is not to be wondered at that I thought my Neil the most wonderful man because he could so quickly rise from comparative poverty to a position very nearly resembling affluence. I was a bit frightened, more than a little disturbed, as well as very happy. Frightened because of the way it appeared to affect Neil—he could talk of nothing but his success, what it would mean to us. Disturbed for fear I, a simple country girl, would not be able to hold my own with the people with whom he said he could now mix.

In Huntington one had been almost, if not quite, on a social par with all the rest save only for a few in the laboring class. Now we had not thought we lived handsomely enough to even know his bachelor friends until he had made all his money. He had long ago explained that a bachelor could live for little because of the demand of hostesses for single men; that we could not hope to keep up with them for the simple reason that our income would not allow us to entertain on the scale to which they were accustomed.

"If we can't do things right, Bab, we won't do them at all," he had said rather impatiently when I remarked that we might do a little entertaining in a simple way. Then when I expressed a fear of meeting any more of his grand friends, he had declared: "You are all right, Bab! You can hold your own with any of those—when you get the right sort of togs. It is like everything else. You play the part better when you are dressed for it. When you met Lorraine Morton you were embarrassed because of her clothes. Honest now, weren't you?"

"Of course I was. She was so stylish, and I looked so ordinary." "Well, unless all signs fail, you can order all the clothes you want to in another week. And Bab, go to the best. I'm sick of staying at home. Get yourself togged out and we'll show the natives a trick or two."

Among the few women I had met in the year we had been married was a Mrs. Orton, a handsome, rather bold-looking woman. She had made a remark in my hearing which had called my attention to her. She had said:

"What I want to get—if not in one way, in another. Don't you? You are foolish if you do not. There's always more than one way to manage."

I had repeated her little speech to Neil, and he had replied:

"Blanche is right. It is easy to get what you want—if you want it badly enough."

"Blanche—do you know her well?"

"I have known her for a long time, two or three years. She's a peach, too! the kind of woman who would push a man on to success."

"What kind of a husband has she?"

"A nincompoop—he's a semi-invalid, so he claims."

"He has lots of money hasn't he?"

"No. She has, tho."

"Somehow, I didn't like her very well."

"That's too bad, because I do."

"It makes me nervous to be with those women. They look so smart, and they talk about things of which I know absolutely nothing. I did not add that I had been happier not to know them. It would have displeased Neil."

It is said that it is in her own drawing-room that a woman is most certain of social success. That it is her battle-field upon which she prepares herself for victories. But with me it had proven almost a Gethsemane. Not that anyone was really aware of it; I had learned to cloak my feelings. But there was always the constant fear that I would do something to embarrass Neil—perhaps that I was not gowned to please him. I was so in love with my husband that the thought of displeasing him seemed to me terrible, and often made me self-conscious.

Neil had told me when we were first married that the secret of a woman's popularity lay in an unlimited ability to listen to what others were saying. I had tried to become a good listener, as a consequence. But often when I heard women like Blanche Orton chat and fling back gay repartee, I thought that it required something besides listening to be as popular as they were.

Tomorrow—Blanche Orton instills a Doubt in Barbara's Heart.

WARNER-SCHOAF—

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schoaf, of Harmon, gave their daughter, Pauline, in marriage last evening to Robert Warner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warner, also of Harmon. The wedding was a very pretty home one, taking place at the home of the bride's parents at 6 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Krebs, pastor of the Lutheran church at Rock Falls, read the service before a company of between twenty-five and thirty relatives and intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. John Schoaf, the former the bride's brother and the latter the groom's sister, were the attendants.

Pink and white festoons and festoons and white wedding bells formed the attractive decorations for the house interior and a pretty setting for the handsome costumes of the bridal party.

The bride was charming in flesh-colored crepe de Chine. Her flowers were pink and white carnations. The matron of honor wore Ivory taffetas and Georgette. The ring service was used.

The ceremony and congratulations over, the company repaired to the dining room where a two-course wedding dinner was served. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, with other friends augmenting the company.

The young couple will make their home with the bride's parents upon their return.

Among the guests from out-of-town were Lundy Warner, the groom's uncle, from Clinton, Ia., and Mr. and Mrs. Beale Cox, of Rock Falls.

ZION MISSIONARY—

A gathering under the auspices of the W. H. and F. Missionary society, of the Zion Lutheran church, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tobias Sweitzer, on February 6. The members of the society and invited guests swelled the number to forty.

A few vocal selection were beautifully sung by Miss Josie Lievan before dinner was served, a sumptuous scramble dinner to which all did justice.

After dinner, a short program was given. All joined in singing, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," the pastor read the scripture lesson and offered prayer. This was followed by a vocal solo, "Alone With Jesus," by Mrs. S. A. Zimbeck. Special music on the cornet, piano and violin was furnished, followed by more singing in unison. A liberal offering was given for the Missionary society. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in social conversation.

Forty-five ladies were present. The meeting opened with the singing of "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." Miss Morgan read from the scriptures and Mrs. Garnett led in prayer. After the general routine of business, a program was given. Mrs. George gave a beautiful vocal number, with Mrs. Blake Grover furnishing the piano accompaniment, and the paper of the afternoon on, "America Enters Persia," which explained much of the customs of the people of that country and told much that was new to the hearers, in a very interesting way, was given by Mrs. Richard Cortright. Mrs. Grover followed with a pleasing piano selection. The General Executive of 1918, held at Cleveland, Dec. 5 to 10, was told of in an interesting account by Mrs. Charles Floto. The wonderful work done throughout the country by the Woman's Foreign Missionary society was developed in this talk. Mrs. Wm. Hintz gave a talk on the membership campaign and also paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of Mrs. Fillmore, whose recent passing left a vacant chair in the society. Mrs. Fillmore's interest in missionary work had been shown in many helpful ways. Mrs. Hintz also mentioned some of the sick of the society, Mrs. J. W. Andrews, who recently underwent an operation at the local hospital, and Mrs. George Morse, who is now in a hospital in Peoria. Eleven new members were added to the society at Thursday's meeting. A social hour ended a pleasant afternoon.

Powerful Pump.

Your heart is a very busy organ. While you breathe once it beats four times. At each beat it sends four pounds of blood through your veins and arteries. The weight of the circulating blood is 29 pounds. When you run your legs and other parts of your body need more blood, so your heart must pump faster.—Popular Science Monthly.

To Reduce.

Diet and exercise are the only "sure cures" for obesity. Reduce the amount of fats and starches in your diet, but increase the amount of bulky and less nutritious vegetables. Let your exercises include walking and various gymnastics exercises, especially those bringing the abdominal muscles into play.

Daily Thought.

Life is a struggle, but not a warfare; it is a day's labor, but labor on God's earth, under the sun and stars with other laborers, where we may think and sing and rejoice as we work.—John Burroughs.

Be Explicit.

Many a salesman loses a sale because he expects to be understood. A salesman must not expect anything; he should be explicit, if he don't want to be disappointed.

Poor Human Nature.

"A lot o' men," said Uncle Eben, "be fairly successful, only dey's jex' natch'ly so dissatisfied dey won't admit it."

Starving in the Midst of Plenty

Acid-Stomach Steals Strength and Good Feelings From Millions

One of the worst features of acid-stomach is that very often it literally starves its victims in the midst of plenty. And the strange thing about it is that the people with acid-stomachs seldom know what their trouble really is. No matter how good or wholesome the food may be, or how much they eat, they do not gain in strength. This is clearly explained by the fact that an acid-stomach cannot properly digest food. Instead of healthy, normal digestion, the excess acid causes the food to sour and ferment. Then when this mass of sour, fermented food, charged with excess acid, passes into the intestines, it becomes the breeding place for all kinds of germs and toxic poisons, which in turn are absorbed into the blood

LEARNING AND BALANCE.

William Jones Sidis was one of those children trained by his parents with a view to developing more of his mind than the average person ever uses. The consequence of this training was that he entered Harvard university at the mature age of 11, and graduated with honor and prestige at 15. Oblivion swallowed him for a time after this, but he has just been heard of as the teacher of bolshevik principles in a school recently formed in Boston for the purpose of disseminating Red ideas.

Perhaps the whole thing is not so silly as it sounds—perhaps there may be a misunderstanding somewhere along the reportorial or telegraphic line which brought the news. But this is certain: If the result of all that extra education, of all the pains of the parents to show how powerful a child's mind may be, is to make the youth a preacher of disruptive and destructive principles, then all the effort was in vain.

It is natural for youth to be radical. It is right that old customs, if bad, should be uprooted. Only youth has the enthusiasm and single-mindedness to do this.

But bolshevism is not democracy. It is the rule of part of the people, just as much as capitalism is. It does not mean freedom. It means worse slavery for everyone, including that "ruling proletariat," than ever was suffered under the old regimes.

If learning is good for anything, it is for giving balance. That man is educated who can think things straight through to their right conclusions.
Surely young Sidis' training should have enabled him to think through so simple an economic and sociological problem as this.

Learning without morals is worse than useless—it becomes destructive. But learning without logic is no learning at all.

SUFFRAGE AT VERSAILLES.

It must have come rather hard for President Wilson, after his tardy but complete and unconditional championing of woman suffrage in the United States, to turn down the delegation representing French working women which asked him to urge the inclusion of suffrage in the peace settlement. The president, however, gave the only reply appropriate to the situation, telling the women that suffrage was purely a domestic question for the various nations. The peace conference, as he sees it, has no business dictating to any of the states what their internal policy shall be, and no delegation or delegate has any business trying to persuade the conference to do anything of the sort.

It would be a good thing if some hundreds of enthusiastic reformers now at Paris or en route thither could get this idea into their heads.
Woman suffrage, prohibition and many other matters now being urged on the peace conference are excellent causes, and those urging them are for the most part excellent people; but it is neither the time nor the place to present them. As to prohibition the United States is leading the world.
Its example is sure to be followed in time. It would be unwise and it is unnecessary to urge it in the peace council.

The conference could not handle such questions without going counter to its own professions of democracy and the determination by every nation of its own form of government and its domestic affairs. Neither could the conference handle them without neglecting the big, vital problems which it has met to solve, and which affect the destinies of all nations in common.

THEY SHALL NOT WALK.

In the good old days Grandfather loved to tell how, when he was a boy, he walked ten miles to school and ten miles home and milked the cow morning and night. But times have changed. We safeguard the health of our children now. Grandfather lived to be only 36, and doubtless his early demise was due to the hardships of his youth.

In order that the children in one district may not be imperilled by over-activity, the women in some communities have demanded a portable schoolhouse. If the children can not walk to school, you just load the school on the flivver and take it to the children.

It is a beautiful idea. Learn and grow fat! The little ones shall not be kept thin by exercise while they acquire their book learning.

But there is one question which might arise and make some such difficulty as the Japanese demands are making in the peace conference. Suppose Willie Smith lives at the east town line, and Minnie Schaefer at the west, who shall decide where the little red schoolhouse shall make its nest?

Perhaps they will take up the school and go out to Willie's and educate him on Tuesdays and Thursdays, then, off in a whirl of dust to Minnie's, and fatten her mind on Mondays and Wednesdays. It can doubtless be arranged. But one thing is sure, the child must not walk to school, he might get frail like Grandfather, and perish before his time.

AMUSEMENTS

PRINCESS THEATER.

Miss Bliss Millford and Gareth
Hughes, who play the leading roles in the great film triumph, "And the Children Pay," are among the most accomplished juvenile actors on stage or screen. Each has had experience in the better motion picture companies and on the legitimate stage before creating the exacting roles of Marge Reynolds and Billy Clark in this sensational brilliant picture which ran to capacity business five weeks on Madison street,
Chicago, where only the exceptionally strong pictures have been booked for as much as two straight weeks in the past two years. Gareth Hughes, on the strength of his remarkable interpretation of the weak and vicious youth whose crimes are due to the lack of education of sex themes from his parents, has been secured by a prominent Broadway theatrical producing firm to appear with Miss Irene Fenwick in a dramatic production this winter. At the Princess theater Saturday and Sunday.

Isadore Eichler went to Chicago
this morning for a short business visit.

"NO BEER, NO WORK" SAYS NEWARK UNION

Building Trades Workers Start Movement for State-wide Strike.

PROTEST DRY LAW

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Newark, N. J., Feb. 6.—A "no beer, no work" slogan was announced today by representatives of 30,000 building trades workmen in condemnation of the nation-wide prohibition law, and they voted to ask the Essex Trades Council to compel the many thousands of union men in Newark and vicinity to start a movement for a strike throughout the state on July 1 when the temperance war-time prohibition law goes into effect.

The delegates favor the manufacture of light wines and beer.

Slayer of Quentin Roosevelt Killed

Burlington, Vt., Feb. 6.—Christion Donhauser, the German aviator who shot down Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt over the German lines on the west front, was killed January 13 last.

That word came today from Ben Braker, who was stationed at a flying field in Germany and claims to have witnessed the death of the German.

He says Donhauser's plane became uncontrollable and plunged to the ground.

GETTING RID OF UGLY HAIRS —OTHER BEAUTY SECRETS— By Madame Marec.

The thousands of women who have sought a safe and painless cure for those unsightly and hideous blemishes, on the face and arms, should welcome the following item taken from one of Madame Marec's famous beauty articles: "Those disagreeable and unsightly hairs can be safely and surely removed without injury to the most delicate skin by the use of sulfo solution. Any druggist can supply you with simple sulfo solution for one dollar. All you need do is apply it freely to the hairy places and keep them moist for a few minutes; after washing off you will find that the hairs have been dissolved away entirely, leaving the skin soft and white."

About as unsightly as the hideous hairs are the pesky little blackheads that clog up the pores of the skin and mar the complexion. Don't squeeze these out; it won't do any good, but will cause large holes in your skin. Get from your druggist about two ounces of neroxin for fifty cents; sprinkle a little over a sponge made wet with hot water; rub briskly over the blackheads, wash off and you will find that these pesky little things have been dissolved away, leaving the skin in its natural condition.

One of the nicest cream lotions that anyone can possibly use on the face, arms, neck and hands to keep the skin soft and velvety, can be made by dissolving one ounce of zintone in a pint of hot water. This should be applied freely at night before retiring, after washing well with plenty of soap and hot water and a splash of cold water. Try it for a few nights and note the wonderful fresh feeling you have when you awake in the morning. The zintone costs fifty cents at the drug store.

WAR LORRIES CARRY LONDONERS TO WORK

War Office Takes Steps to Relieve the Suffering
Public.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Feb. 6.—The British government continues to maintain the attitude that it can not interfere in the strike in progress in London because it is solely an industrial controversy, but prompted by the suffering public to take relief measures until the settlement of the strike, the war office early today mobilized more than 1,000 motor lorries along the principal routes of traffic to replace the suspended tube service.

The motor lorries were manned by military drivers. It is estimated they would be able to carry over 250,000 persons daily. No fare is charged and particular attention is paid to working women and girls. Only working people are picked up by the lorries.

The extension of the strike to the electric and steam service between London and the Southwest and Brighton railroad lines further disturbed London's suburban traffic today.

Chicago Ministers Oppose Boxing Bill

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield, Ill., Feb. 6.—The first opposition to the movement for legalized boxing made its appearance in the Senate today in the form of a memorial from the United Protestant Ministers' union of Chicago. It was referred to the committee on License. Both houses adjourned at noon until next Tuesday. Before quitting for the week they passed a joint resolution to set aside Wednesday morning, Feb. 12, for suitable exercises in celebration of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. The joint session will be at 11 a. m.

CAN'T DO THE WORK

It's too much to try to work every day against a constant, dull backache, or sudden darting pain in the small of the back. Be rid of it. Try Doan's Kidney Pills. Your neighbors recommend them.

John H. Fulk, 510 W. Seventh st., Dixon, says: "I am a shoe cutter by trade and have to be standing in front of a cutting machine. There is a great deal of jarring in connection with this work and I am sure that is what caused my kidneys to get out of order. I was completely down and out and unable to work for ten days. I could hardly move, my back pained so terribly and I couldn't lift the lightest weight. The kidney secretions passed too freely and it was annoying to have to get up so often at night to pass them. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at Prescott & Schildberg's drug store. After using them the trouble disappeared."

BACK TO PEACE CLOTHES!

They are coming home. They are getting back to Peace Clothes. These fellows who have been fighting to make our liberties secure are going to do things over here as they did "over there".

They are going to dress better than ever, because Uncle Sam taught them how to dress. A neat appearance was always demanded of the men in the service.

When those well groomed upstanding young Yanks swung down through the streets of London and Paris they put new life and hope into the breasts of their allies.

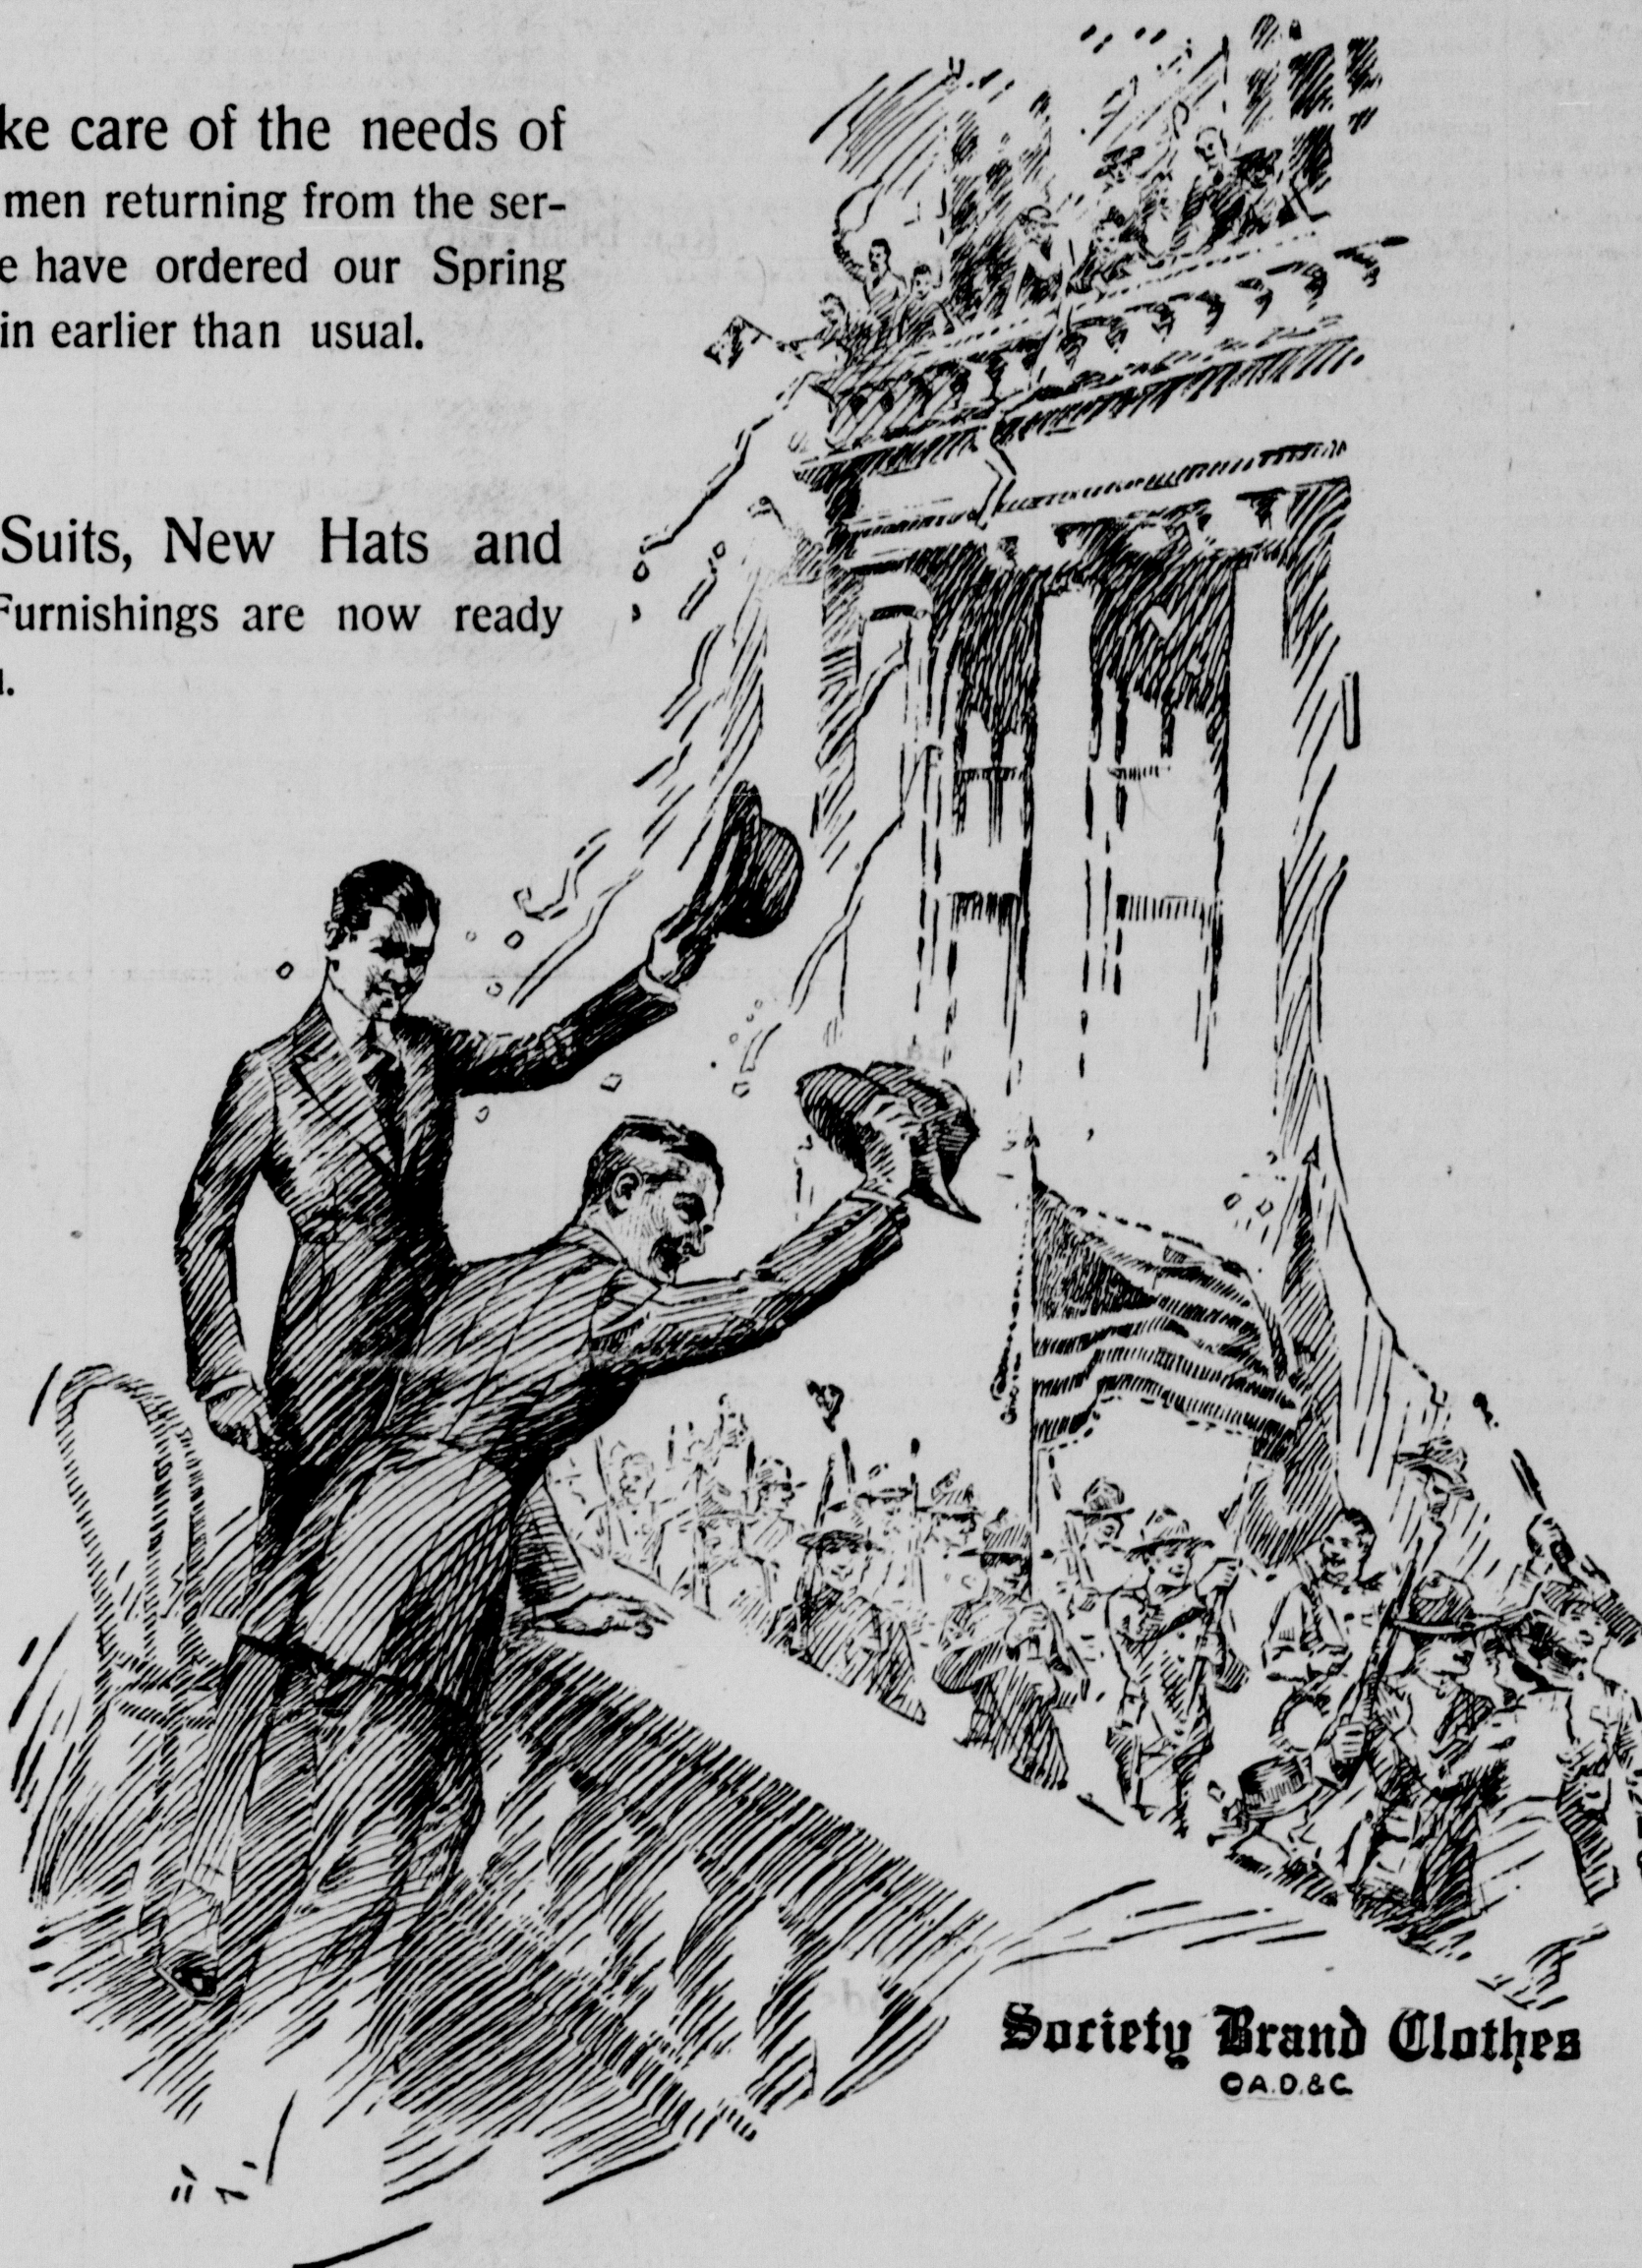

The best dressed soldiers in the world were in the American Army.

Their very appearance inspired confidence. They looked equal to the job before them.

Reason this out for yourself. If Uncle Sam thinks it important that men in military service dress well, isn't it doubly important that you fellows in civil life look to your personal appearance?

To take care of the needs of young men returning from the service we have ordered our Spring goods in earlier than usual.

New Furnishings are now ready

CHAPTER XXIV—Pitchoune, while scouting in the desert meets Tremont, who disguises himself as a Bedouin and succeeds in getting Sabron away. Julia and Therese meet them in the desert.

CHAPTER XXV—Sabron improves rapidly in the hospital at Algiers. Tremont looks so happy that Sabron thinks he is engaged to Julia. Julia sails for home.

"Fiddlesticks!" said the Marquise d'Esclignac impatiently. "I have no understanding of the modern young girl. She makes her own marriages and her subsequent divorces. I am your aunt, my dear, your mother's sister, and a woman of at least twenty-five years' more experience than you have."

Julia was not following her aunt's train of thought, but her own. She felt the hint of authority and bondage in her aunt's tone and repeated:

"I wish to leave Algiers tomorrow."

"You shall do so," said her aunt. "I am related to get out of the Orient. It is late to order my dresses for Trouville, but I can manage. Before we go, however, my dear, I want you to make me a promise."

"A promise, ma tante?" The girl's tone implied that she did not think she would give it.

"You have played the part of fate in the life of this young man, who, I find, is a charming and brave man. Now you must stand by your guns, my dear Julia."

"Why, how do you mean, ma tante?"

"You will go to Paris and the Capitaine de Sabron will get well rapidly. He will follow you, and if it were not for Tremont, myself, your Red Cross Society and the presence here of Madame de la Maine, you would have been very much compromised. But never mind," said the Marquise d'Esclignac magnificently, "my name is sufficient protection for my niece. I am thinking solely of the poor young man."

"Of Monsieur de Sabron?"

"Of course," said the Marquise d'Esclignac tartly. "Did you think I meant Robert? You have so well arranged his life for him, my dear."

"Ma tante," pleaded the girl. The marquise was merciless.

"I want you to promise me, Julia, before you sail for home, that if Sabron follows us and makes you understand that he loves you, as he will, that you will accept him."

Julia Redmond looked at the Marquise d'Esclignac in astonishment. She half laughed and she half cried.

"You want me to promise?"

"I do," said her aunt firmly, regarding her niece through her lorgnon. "In the first place the affair is entirely unconventional and has been since we left France. It is I who should speak to the Capitaine de Sabron. You are so extremely rich that it will be a difficult matter for a poor and honorable young man."

Indeed, my dear, I may as well tell you that I shall do so when we reach home."

"Oh," said the girl, turning perfectly pale and stepping forward toward her aunt, "if you consider such a thing I shall leave for America at once."

The Marquise d'Esclignac gave a petulant sigh.

"How impossible you are, Julia. Understand me, my dear, I do not want a woman of my family to be a coquette. I do not want it said that you are an American flirt—it is in bad taste and entirely misunderstood in the Faubourg St-Germain."

The girl, bewildered by her aunt's attitude and extremely troubled by the threat of the marriage convention, said:

"Don't you understand? In this case it is peculiarly delicate. He might ask me from a sense of honor."

"Not in any sense," said the Marquise d'Esclignac. "It has not occurred to the poor young officer to suppose for a moment that a young woman with millions, as you are so fortunate to be, would debase herself like this to follow him. If I thought so I would not have brought you, Julia. What I have done, I have done solely for your peace of mind, my child. This young man loves you. He believes that you love him, no doubt. You have given him sufficient reason, heaven knows! Now," said her aunt emphatically, "I do not intend that you should break his heart."

It was more than likely that the Marquise d'Esclignac was looking back twenty-five years to a time, when as a rich American, she had put aside her love for a penniless soldier with an insignificant title. She remembered how she had followed his campaign. She folded her lorgnon and looked at her niece. Julia Redmond saw a cloud pass over her aunt's tranquil face. She put her arms around her and kissed her tenderly.

"You really think then, ma tante, that he will come to Paris?"

"Without a doubt, my dear."

"You think he cares, ma tante?"

Her aunt kissed her and laughed. "I think you will be happy to a bourgeois extent. He is a fine man."

"But do I need to promise you?" asked the girl. "Don't you know?"

"I shall be perfectly ashamed of you," said the Marquise d'Esclignac. "If you are anything but a woman of heart and decision in this matter."

Evidently she waited, and Julia Redmond, slightly bowing her lovely head in deference to the older lady who had not married her first love, said obediently:

"I promise to do as you wish, ma tante."

CHAPTER XXVI.

Congratulations.

The Duc de Tremont saw what splendid stuff the captain in the Cavalry was made of by the young man's quick convalescence. Sabron could not understand why Robert lingered after the departure of the Marquise d'Esclignac, the Comtesse de la Maine and Miss Redmond. The presence of the young man would have been agreeable if it had not been for his jealousy and his unhappiness.

They played piquet together. Sabron, in his right mind, thinner and paler, nevertheless very much of a man, now smoked his cigarettes and ate his three meals a day. He took a walk every day and was quite fit to leave the Orient. Tremont said:

"I think, Sabron, that we can sail this week."

Sabron looked at him questioningly. "You are going, then, too—?"

"Of course," said the young nobleman heartily. "We are going together. You know I am going to take you back in my yacht."

Sabron hesitated and then said:

"No, mon vieux, if you will excuse me I think I shall remain faithful to the old line of travel. I have an idea that I am not in yachting trim."

Tremont was not too dull to have noticed his friend's change of attitude toward him. He smoked for a few moments and then said:

"When we get back to Paris I want to have the pleasure of introducing you to my fiancée."

Sabron dropped his cards. "Introducing me?" he repeated. Then putting out his hand, said cordially: "I knew you were to be felicitated, old fellow."

Tremont shook his hand warmly. "Yes, and the lady is very anxious to know you. It is Madame de la Maine."

A very warm color flushed the cheeks of the invalid. He remembered all he had heard and all he had known. He congratulated his friend with sincere warmth, and after a few moments said:

"If you really want me to go back with you on the yacht, old chap—"

"I really do," said Tremont serenely. "You see, when we came on the boat we scarcely hoped to be so fortunate as to bring back the distinguished captain."

Sabron smiled.

"But you have not told me yet," he said, "why you came down."

"No," said Tremont, "that is true. Well, it will make a story for the sea."

CHAPTER XXVII.

Valor in Retrospect.

In the month of May, when the chestnuts bloom in the green dells, where the delicate young foliage holds the light as in golden cups, a young man walked through one of the small allees of the Bois at the fashionable noon hour, a little reddish dog trotting at his heels. The young man walked with an imperceptible limp. He was thin, as men are who have lived hard and who have overcome tremendous obstacles. He was tanned as men are browned who have come from eastern and extreme southern countries.

The little dog had also an imperceptible limp occasioned by a bicycle running over him when he was a puppy.

The two companions seemed immensely to enjoy the spring day. Sabron every now and then stood for a few moments looking at the gay passers-by, pedestrians and equestrians, enjoying to the full the repose of civilization, the beauty of his own land.

Pitchoune looked with indifference upon the many dogs. He did not stir from his master's side. When Sabron was quiet, the little animal stood at attention; he was a soldier's dog. He could have told dog stories to those insignificant worldly dogs—those have told of really thrilling adventures. His brown eyes were pathetic with their appeal of affection as they looked up at his beloved master. He had a fund of experience such as the poodles and the terriers led by their owners could not understand. Therefore Pitchoune was indifferent to them. Not one of those petted, ridiculous house dogs could have run for miles in the dark across an African desert, could have found Beni Medinet and fetched relief to his master. Pitchoune was proud of it. He was very well satisfied with his career. He was still young; other deeds of valor perhaps lay before him—who can tell? At any rate he had been shown about at the ministry of war, been very much admired, and he was a proud animal.

When Sabron spoke to him he leaped upon him and wagged his tail. After a few moments, as the two stood near the exit of an alley leading to one of the grand avenues, Pitchoune slowly went in front of his master and toward two ladies sitting on a bench in the gentle warmth of the May sunlight. Pitchoune, moved from his usual indifference, gave a short bark, walked up to the ladies, and began to sniff about their feet. The younger lady exclaimed, and then Sabron, lifting his hat, came forward, the crimson color beating in his dark tanned cheeks.

The Marquise d'Esclignac held out both hands to the officer:

"It's nearly noon," she said, "and you don't forget that you have promised to lunch with us, do you, Monsieur le Capitaine?"

Sabron, bending over her hand, assured her that he had not forgotten. Then his eyes traveled to her companion. Miss Redmond wore a very simple dress, as was her fashion, but the young officer from Africa, who had not seen her near by until now and who had only caught a glimpse of her across the opera house, thought that he had never seen such a beautiful dress in all his life. It was made of soft gray cloth and fitted her closely, and in the lapel of her mannish little buttonhole she wore a few Parma violets. He recognized them. They had come from a bunch that he had sent her the night before. He kissed her hand, and they stood talking together, the three of them, for a few moments, Pitchoune stationing himself as a sentinel by Miss Redmond's side.

The Marquise d'Esclignac rose. The young girl rose as well, and they walked on together.

DIXON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Game Friday Night—The Dixon High school basketball quintet will engage in a contest with Mt. Carroll High here in Dixon, this Friday night at the local high school gym.

This is going to be one of the biggest games of the home schedule. Mt. Carroll expects to defeat Dixon and the home team are still in remembrance of the hard fought game between the two teams at Mt. Carroll and are ready for a hard game. If Dixon wins this game it will be her sixth successive victory, so the basket ball fans of Dixon are going to see a good game. Stepped Out—Miss Mary Louise Fuller and Miss Marian Gertrude Cahill were pleasure seekers at the Family theater Tuesday evening and Miss Fuller was a sleeper at the Cahill's for the night.

Social—After the Mt. Carroll-Dixon basket ball game Friday night there will be a social held in the gym. The girls will have a candy, doughnut and coffee sale. Every one welcome. Miss Mary Wolf of the suburbs is doing her hair up with the monkey wrench now. Is that right Mary? Classes Met—The Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores and little tots held meetings Tuesday after school to name committees for the social Friday.

Surprise Party—A number of students held a surprise party on Helen McWethy at the home of Mrs. George Covert on Tuesday evening.—Main attraction of the party was the gossiping club formed by the girls of the Junior class.—The "Great Barr" (Lumberfoot) was there with bells on his fingers and rings on his toes. He was latter found under the table. What was the occasion Lumberfoot? Ruth Kerz and Hazel Ross acted as the dancing instructors.—Ask Bessy Fane who rode the pig through Ireland?—Lady face was out among 'em to—Earl Kerst asked when refreshments came, probably went without his supper.

Hazel Ross then entertained with a giggling solo.—They wondered where Clark Hess was when the lights went out. He was right next to the grape fruit.—Then Ermin Miller gave a solo, "Give Me the Hay-rack, Give Me the Girl, and Leave the Rest to Me."—Post Office was then suggested and Grace Beyers said "Oh! We played that when we were kids," and they all started looking for her gray hairs.—Senior Vodyville.—The Senior vodyville committee are making headway on the doings that are to be held two weeks from last Tuesday, at the Opera House. A big feature picture will be shown also.

Wanted—The Misses Anna Holmes and Marcelle Kent wish the signatures, nicknames and by-words of the students in the Dixon High school as they have each possession of a "memory book of H. S. day."

Time for registration is 9 till 12 and 1 till 4:30.—Clarence Vaile ex-high school scholar has accepted a position in Henry's shoe store. Clarence wishes it announced to High school students that he will tickle the bottom of their feet for nothing. Now to avoid the rush Clarence has divided the girls and boys, the girls to come on Mondays and Thursday, boys on Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

MONEY-SAVERS FOR ALL

These Durable Soles Cut Shoe Bills Down

"For use around cement plants and similar places where rough materials grind down soles quickly. I recommend Neolin Soles. They resist wear surprisingly. After working around the clinker department long enough to wear out two pairs of ordinary soles, my Neolin Soles are still as good as new," writes A. F. Miller, superintendent of The Peninsular Portland Cement Company plant in Jackson, Michigan.

It is remarkable how tough and durable Neolin Soles are. They are made so by Science—comfortable and waterproof, too. They come on new shoes in many styles for men, women, and children, and are available everywhere for re-soles. Wear them, and cut your shoe bills down.

Neolin Soles are made by The Good-year Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

GRIP, INFLUENZA

Hamlin's Wizard Oil a Reliable, Antiseptic Preventive

During influenza epidemics spray the nose and throat several times a day with one part Wizard Oil and two parts water, using an atomizer. If you haven't an atomizer, gargle the throat and sniff the mixture up the nose. This treatment sets up an antiseptic wall of defense against "Flu" germs.

Chest colds and sore throat lead to grip. Stop them at once with Wizard Oil before they can develop into dangerous influenza.

Get it from druggists for 30c. If not satisfied, return the bottle and get your money back.

Ever constipated or have sick headache? Just try Wizard Liver Whips, pleasant little pink pills, 30c at druggists. Guaranteed.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for 2 times and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition and 25c per box. All druggists.

ROOT SAYS THOMPSON WOULD HAVE BEEN A BLOW TO U. S. SENATE

Elihu Root Tells of Activities of National Security League.

DEFENDS ITS ACTIONS

Also Tells Why League Opposed Henry Ford for U. S. Senate.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 6.—Elihu Root, honorary president of the National Security league, defended the work of the organization during the last congressional campaign in testifying today before the special house committee, which has been investigating the league's political activities.

Mr. Root asserted that the sole purpose of the league had been to educate the voters of the country regarding the records made by their congressmen. He said the league desired that only men who were 100 per cent American should be returned to congress so that the work of winning the war could be carried on with the least amount of friction.

Thompson's Defeat "Imperative."

When asked by Representative Browne of Wisconsin if the league had not "meddled in politics" in opposing the nomination of Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago for senator, Mr. Root stated that the league considered it its duty to prevent Mr. Thompson going to congress.

"It was not entering into politics a tall," Mr. Root said. "It was imperative that Mr. Thompson be defeated in the primaries. His nomination would have been our duty to wake the people up to the dangers."

Furthermore, I do not think that opposition to a man's nomination in the primaries can be considered politics. That is a personal privilege. There is no politics in it at all."

Why Ford Was Opposed.

Reasons why the league opposed the election of Henry Ford as senator from Michigan, were advanced by Mr. Root.

"Mr. Ford was a pacifist," he said. "He was against the war, and he made public utterances which in my opinion made it of great importance for the successful prosecution of the war, that he be defeated."

"After the war was declared Mr. Ford did everything possible to aid the country to defeat Germany, did he not?" asked Mr. Browne.

"Well, I'm not so sure about that," Mr. Root replied.

"Mr. Wilson thought so, didn't he?" Mr. Browne asked.

"I disagree with President Wilson in that matter," Mr. Root stated.

Thought Him on Verge.

"Well, you can't classify Mr. Ford as disloyal, can you?" asked Mr. Browne.

"I think he came to the very verge of being disloyal if he didn't go over," Mr. Root stated.

Questioned about the congressional chart containing the eight "acid tests," which had been sent out by the organization, Mr. Root said it was designed to show the people how congressmen had voted on important war measures and had proved valuable.

He conceded, when questioned, that the action of the league in calling members of the house disloyal who had opposed pre-war legislation the league favored, but who had supported the administration's policy after war was declared, was unfair.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

The following letter was written by Lieut. Frank Hogan to Grover Wilhelm:

Friend Grover:

Well, Grover, how are you by this time? I presume you will be surprised to hear from me, but I never have forgotten you or any of the boys from the old barber shop, and, believe me, I have wished many times that I were there and could hear the barber shop chord as well as help harmonize with our old quartette. After fourteen months of war I am about fed up, but I am going to stick until they drag me out, and honestly, one never knows when that will happen, and many a time I thought my time had come, but you know I always was lucky. I had my turn in the trenches and was then transferred to the Transportation Dept., and I am now in charge of the second largest railroad yards in France. When I first took over this sort of work I thought that I surely would fall down, but I worked night and day and at present I am going good. I never was a wizard with French, but now I can talk to any of them, but I have a tough time trying to understand them as they talk so fast, but I make motions and in time they quiet down. I am handling the freight and casuals (replacements for wounded) for 500,000 men and I am busy all the time, but I am willing to work night and day to get it over with, and that time is not far off, as we are beating them at every turn, and now they want peace, but I hope they do not get it as you can imagine the damage they've done, and I see it every day. As soon as we get them on German soil, they are through, and at present it is only a matter of a few months, and we will be there. They are good fighters, but once you get them in a corner they give up, but usually they fire all their ammunition and then cry, "kamarad." They did not kid us with this cry as we knew their game. I presume the old town is pretty quiet at present, but when this show is over and the curtain comes down after the last act, all we boys from Dixon will hurry home as fast as possible and I think I express the sentiments of all from Dixon.

Yesterday was the first day of winter and it was anything but cheerful—rain all day and very cold, but they do not come any more severe than last winter, so I guess I can stand it. I am feeling just dandy, and when a fellow has health over here he has a great asset, as it is very easy to acquire the grippe, pneumonia, and all of this kind over here owing to the damp weather that we have all the time.

Grover, this is not much of a letter, but it will let you know that I am still up and at them. Give my best to all the boys and take care of yourself. Your friends, STUB.

F. V. Hogan, 1st Lt. Inf., c/o Director General Transportation.

City in Mountain.

In southern Tunisia is a mountain of considerable size called Douirat, which once upon a time was an active volcano. Bubbles of volcanic gases made it a veritable honeycomb of caves, which in these days are inhabited. In fact, the whole mountain is a city—a human ant-hill, densely populated.
